FRIDAY, JANUARY 16, 1857.

THE AMERICAN CHURCH MONTHLY.—We have received the first number of a new periodical under this title. The high literary reputation of the editor, the Rev. H. N. Hudson, is admirably sustained by the salutary in this opening number. Mr. Hudson is known, wherever the English language is spoken, by his original and graphic lectures on Shakespeare, and as the editor of the best edition of the great poet ever issued. The long and familiar acquaintance of Mr. H. with the pure and noble thoughts and with the "English undefiled" of this mighty master of the soul has imparted to his own style a richness, raciness, quaintness, and beauty that are most refreshing. We know of no author in America at all equal to Mr. Hudson in the combination of these qualities. We therefore congratulate the public that a mind so healthful and so powerful is fully enlisted in this enterprise. He says: "We have made up our mind that the thing ought to be done and must done. In this persuasion we now and henceforth stand addressed to the task: all the care and diligence and energy we can muster will be brought to bear upon the American Church Monthly."

That a literary and religious monthly conducted under such auspices and in the spirit here foreshadowed will do a great deal toward elevating and purifying the tone of American literature none can doubt. One or two extracts from the opening paper will indicate the spirit of the work, and furnish some idea of the style of the editor. After saying that "we shall not directly have any share in the politics of the day," he adds:

Nevertheless, we are in principle and feeling thoroughly American; we love our National Institutions; we firmly believe in our great Constitutional Democracy; we look with wonder and awe upon our superb and mighty structure of a Confederated Republic, and we cherish a strong desire to secure the birth gift of Liberty, informed with intelligence, and protected by Law. Every year adds to our sense of the beauty and strength of our Political Fabric, and also our reverence for the Fathers who wrought out and handed it down to us. As Americans, we can have no sectional discontents—but must stand unreservedly for our country, our whole country, as it is, with its noble inheritance of Freedom, Intelligence, and Order.

In regard to the separation of religion from literature and art, Mr. Hudson says beautifully:

The cause of religion cannot but suffer much in the long run from such an unnatural disengagement. Christianity, and therefore the Church, can ill afford to stand aloof in a sort of high, and dry dignity, as who would say to the accomplishments and genialities of liberal thought, "I have no need of you." Her ends are indeed far above them, but are not, before it is all thought in the mind of man, to be easily reached with any thought of sectional discontents—but must stand unreservedly for our country, our whole country, as it is, with its noble inheritance of Freedom, Intelligence, and Order.

The mercantile agency of Douglass & Co., of New York, have published a table of failures in the United States during the year 1856. The total number was 2,705, of which about 150 are designated as swindling failures. The number of failures in Kentucky mentioned is 38.

RANK FAILURES.—A dispatch from Indianapolis, from Dunleavy, Haire, & Co., received by Messrs. Thos. Brown & Co., last evening, states that the Gramercy Bank of Lafayette and the Shawnee Bank of Attica have failed.

CHARLEY TALBOTT and Frank Smith, notorious characters about the dens of infamy in this city, were of the number that escaped from the Madison jail on Tuesday night.

Phil. Lee, Esq., the gallant American elector for the Fifth district in the late canvass, and S. Carpenter, of Bardstown, were in the city yesterday.

Wm. Porter, an old work-house convict, was returned to jail yesterday, having been drunk and disorderly.

The Cincinnati Commercial says that it is a fixed fact that the next Ohio State Fair is to be held in the vicinity of that city.

SUGAR.—A correspondent of the St. Louis Republican concludes some strictures upon an editorial of the Republican in regard to the duty on sugar with the following pointed suggestions:

Having corrected some errors, allow me to suggest to your readers:

First.—It is evident we cannot rely upon Louisiana for the supply of what is absolutely one of the prime necessities of life.

Second.—That it is not democratic or right to tax enormously the people of thirty States and several territories for the protection of a small interest in one State.

And third.—That public sentiment will no longer tolerate the import duty on sugar. The sooner Secretary Guthrie recommends its abrogation the better it will be for his fame, and for the good of the people whose interests he is bound to consult.

COLLINS, whose examination before the police court is noticed elsewhere this morning, proves to be an escaped felon from the Bedford (Ind.) jail. He was recommitted to jail last evening and will be returned to Indiana.

THE LECTURE LAST NIGHT.—Prof. Dana was greeted with a large and intelligent audience. His lecture opened with a sketch of the area of the coral islands of the Pacific which do not exceed that of the State of New York, if we except a few of the larger islands although they are more than six hundred in number. Among these are islands whose crags, peaks, and gorges rival those of the Alps, and amidst these scenes, some of which would aid in our conceptions of a world in ruins the treefern and palm flourish with singular luxuriance.

The coral polyp next claimed attention. Its wonderful powers of reproduction and secretion formed both novel and interesting. The ethnology and zoology of this strange portion of cosmical history called forth the admiration of the audience as evinced by their countenances. The lecture closed by a small sketch of the subsidence of the Pacific continent and its relation to the forms assumed by coral islands.

At the close of the lecture, Prof. J. Lawrence Smith arose and proposed to detain Prof. Dana until Saturday night when he should deliver one more lecture, which was hailed with rapturous applause by the audience. Prof. Dana generously accepted and will again afford an intellectual treat.

CRIMINAL COURT.—The proceedings yesterday were as follows:

John Sanders, for stealing brass boxes of the value of $15, the property of Richard Smith, was convicted and sentenced to two years confinement in the penitentiary.

Mary Mack having stolen from Mrs. Halema Hyman three silk dresses, worth $5 each, was convicted and sent for one year.

Polly Grimes, who says her real name is Catherine Flanner, who had stolen a gold watch from Mrs. Anne Simpson valued at $100, was sent to the penitentiary for one year. Polly had to be carried out of the court-room in the arms of two or three officers, obstinately refusing to walk.

The following cases were continued to the next term:

Isaac Gumsey, for stealing from Sproule & Mandeville.

Elisha Hillier, charged with enticing away a slave of J. W. Newland.

John Clifton, stealing casinet goods from E. H. Bland.

Joseph Hankel, Regina Hankel, and Gothart Huber, for murder of Henry Roth.

Wm. Grissom, for passing counterfeit money.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.—Our accounts from New York are most encouraging. Upwards of $60,000 was being paid in upon the installments. A deputy engineer, sent from Marshall in Texas for funds to complete the payment of four hundred and fifty hands on the first of January, passed the money at New Orleans. The calculation was that ten miles would be ready by the 5th of February, and the law will certainly be complied with.

New stockholders at New York are taking hold. The amount of $25,000 is arranged to be paid monthly for ten months. The magnificent enterprise will not be allowed to languish. It will make the fortunes of all connected with it and contribute vastly toward making the fortune of the Southern country and of the whole country.

BONDS OF LOUISVILLE.—There is to be found in the monetary circles of the country no description of bonds of a better class and more profitable than those put forth by our city. They command the best price in the eastern markets notwithstanding the unpatriotic and impolitic attempts of certain city papers to depreciate the credit of the city. Yesterday one of our leading Main street merchants received an order from the trustees of one of the leading literary institutions of the State, to invest a large sum in the bonds of the city. The funds were contributed for the endowment of the institution of the city. We are sure that they could not be invested more securely, and we commend the wisdom of the order. Louisville credit is appreciated abroad, say what some of the day.

THE OHIO AND MISSISSIPPI RAILROAD.—We learn that this road will be entirely completed by the first of March. Cars will run directly through from Cincinnati to St. Louis on that day.

IT will be seen from the market report that there had been several heavy transactions in provisions at very full prices. The Cincinnati Gazette, of yesterday, says:

Yesterdays we noticed the prevalence of a heavy feeling in the provision market. The market opened to-day with a slightly improved feeling, and this was further strengthened by a favorable arrival from New York and the arrival of a report on "Change." The fact that prices improved in New York, notwithstanding the discouraging news from Europe, inspired holders with increased confidence. Still it is apparent that prices are sustained by a very slender thread, which will snap under a sharp pull, bringing about the execution of some transactions in sugar and ham, for future delivery, at 11½c, the business of the day was unimportant. Bulk meat was to be had at 7½ and 5½c for shoulders and sides. The highest previous quotations were 7½@5½c. We heard of some inquiry for box middles, which are held at 9½@9½c for long and short. All was hard at 11½@12c for prime bbl and keg.

CINCINNATI is receiving coal from Evansville. Mr. Coleman, the proprietor of the Burnet House, telegraphs the Mayor of Cincinnati as follows:

EVANSVILLE, Jan. 14.

The citizens and the coal company send two car loads of coal for distribution among the poor. It is fine of quality, and we have shipped three thousand bushels for my house.

NORTHWESTERN (Va.) RAILROAD.—The Parkersburg News, in announcing the laying of the last rail on this road, says:

The scene was one gratifying to all, and created much excitement among the workmen, who had toiled so faithfully to effect it, and the many spectators who had been assembled to witness it.

Immediately after laying the last rail, locomotive No. 2 passed over the junction point, amid loud cheers, and, after waiting a few hours for the completion of the spiking, was attended back to Parkersburg by the large Campbell engine No. 6, where its arrival was hailed by the firing of cannons, and the general rejoicing of a large number citizens who were in waiting at the depot.

MARRIED,

On the 14th inst., at Christ church, by the Rev. James Clark, THOS. M. HORNE, Esq., one of the proprietors of John A. and Joanna Miller, aged 3 years and 10 months.

EVENING BULLETIN.

FRIDAY EVENING, JAN. 16, 1857.

Hor WATER FOR HOUSE PLANTS.—A correspondent of the Boston Cultivator, writing of the management of house-plants, says:

The way to have healthy plants is to shorten in all straggling growth and remove every leaf and flower as soon as the least symptom of decay is perceptible, washing them occasionally with very warm water from the fine rose of a watering pot held high above them, thus giving them the benefit of a warm shower at any time or place. But the thing of all others the most important, is to water them with hot water at all times; yes, hot to the touch, even beyond what is supposed to be prudent until after experiment—and it is only necessary to watch the result on the health and vigor of the plants, especially when in bloom, to be convinced of the value of this "grand specific."

The writer says he has Fuchsias now in bloom, mere cuttings about six inches in height, not one failing out of seven or even more cuttings planted in a single pot and watered with hot water.

MASSACHUSETTS BOAT AND SHOE TRADE.—The annual value of the boats and shoes manufactured in Massachusetts is estimated at $37,000,000, and is constantly increasing. The quantity manufactured has more than tripled in the last ten years, and no more is now manufactured than is necessary to meet the demand.

The gross value of all the manufactured productions of all kinds of Massachusetts is nearly $300,000,000.

HOGS IN INDIANA.—The report of the auditor of Indiana exhibits a decrease in the number of hogs. In 1855, there were 2,668,572, and in 1856, 2,277,124, making a decrease of 391,448, or one-seventh.

THEATRE.—That beautiful and accomplished young actress Miss Dora Shaw is playing with great success in Indianapolis. She appears at our city theater next week.

NEUFCHATEL.—The difficulties which have recently sprung up in that country invest its history with much interest. A letter in the Journal of Commerce furnishes the following sketch:

Late in the afternoon we reached Neufchateau. This town lies at the foot of the Jura mountains, partly a spur of the chain, and extends into the lake, and partly into the small sandy plain bordering it. There are several well-built streets in the lower part of the town, and there was an air of excitement and business among the people which reminded me of America. I was much surprised, indeed, on landing, to find the principal streets, the boulevard, the boulevard, the boulevard, all high places, and hotel crowded, and the people moving here and there with the same expression of personal responsibility and importance characteristic of men at home when they are making or unmaking Governors and Presidents. I soon learned that these men were not only the leaders of the country, but were in favor of the King of Prussia. A young Count, connected with one of the old aristocratic families of Neufchateau, counting much upon his personal influence with that people, had attempted to restore this Canton to its subject to King authority, and had suddenly failed. His plan, however, was well laid; and, if the people had been anxious for a change as he supposed, his success would have been certain.

But, when the hour of trial came, the thousands on whom he had relied, divided away to a few hundred, and their own hands had to be held by a few hours' conflict and the loss of some fifteen or twenty lives, they were overpowered by the masses of the indignant citizens, and their young leader and his immediate friends were imprisoned in the Castle. Soldiers soon came pouring in from the hills and valleys, and with them the citizens of Neufchateau were just terminating a grand fest-day in view of their easy and decided victory over the friends of despotic power.

The political history of Neufchateau is somewhat peculiar, and explains better than anything else its present position. From 1792 to 1830, it was ruled by an independent Count of Neufchateau. At the end of this period the Count of Fribourg was placed at the head of the government, and that family reigned till 1837. After that, the Counts of the House of Orleans Longueville reigned till 1870, when, by the death of the Princess Mary of Nemours, the family became extinct, and fifteen different claimants arose as candidates for the sovereign power. Among these was Frederick, King of Prussia, whose pretensions were acknowledged, and, let me add, supported by some of the principal powers of Europe, while Louis XIV and Papal influences generally were arrayed against him. At this crisis the Legislative Body of Neufchateau elected Frederick as their King, and the people in their different villages conformed to his choice.

In this manner the King of Prussia became a sort of citizen of King of Neufchateau. His authority has been always, I judge, more nominal than real. The territory is separated entirely from Prussia, other small kindoms of Germany intervening. He has, however, let them alone, and their own municipal regulations have enjoyed for centuries the same kind of independence that the American colonies enjoyed previous to our revolution. In the great uprising of 1848, when thrones were tumbling over Europe, and crowned heads were at a discount, Neufchateau remained quiet, and its Swiss Confederation was down without a struggle on the part of the King of Prussia, and without any demonstration of violence on the part of the people. It was, in fact, a mere public declaration of what had for a long time existed, sympathy with Swiss republicanism, and a desire to identify themselves more closely with the Swiss.

It is thought by many that though the King of Prussia had protested against the act of Neufchateau, yet that he had no intention of interfering, that the late attempt at revolution did not originate with him, and that he did not even know that the same was about to be made. The relation of the two parties is, however, very different, and is in danger of being greatly complicated. The imprisonment of the Count is just desert for his treason against Neufchateau, and yet, as it is occasioned by an act of proposed loyalty to King, he feels bound in honor to demand his release. Both parties are, however, in a position to yet, the Swiss confederation, rather than yield to any authority which the King of Prussia may presume to exercise in their republic, will bring all their soldiers into the field of battle and reduce to the death.

Another matter which adds somewhat to the complication of the case is the fact that the King of Prussia has been confined in Fauquier county jail since the first of October, 1846, for debt, under the old law, was released on Christmas day by jailor Cross, there being nothing left in the hands of the law to pay his jail expenses. We learn that this man had property enough to pay this claim against him, but that he preferred spending his weary hours within the gloomy walls of the county prison to paying the debt which he owed. The person who had him confined has been dead some years, but we learn put a provision in his will appropriating a sufficient amount to keep him in limbo as long as he lived. Some how or other this stipulation has given out; and of course Gregg becomes free again. When he left the jail door he appeared to be perfectly bewildered and did not know which way to travel; but in a short time he became fully conscious of his freedom, and strutted about with the air of one who knew what liberty used to be in "by-gone days."

Warrenton (Va.) Whig.

An Artful Miser.—Some time ago a gentleman called upon a certain nobleman, a very wealthy and inordinately mean character, and found him at the breakfast table, quite alone, and doing his utmost to catch a fly which was buzzing about the room. "What the deuce are you about?" demanded the astonished visitor, to whom the spectacle of an old man amusing himself by catching flies seemed very singular, to say the least. "Hush!" exclaimed the other. "I'll tell you presently." After many efforts, the old fellow at last succeeded in entrapping the fly. Taking the insect carefully between his thumb and forefinger, he put it into the sugar-bowl, and quickly dropped the lid over his prisoner. His visitor, more annoyed than ever, knowing as he did theavarious character of the man before him, repeated the question. "I'll tell you," replied the miser, a triumphant grin overspreading his countenance as he spoke. "I want to ascertain if the servants steal the sugar."

Making Things Comfortable.—The Boston theatre is a model of comfort in every way. You sit on the easiest of seats, have plenty of room for your "continuations," have everywhere a good sight and hearing of the stage, are never offended by the lack of ventilation, have wide lobes to lounge in, convenient retiring rooms to sit in, and plenty of light to see by. A gong is sounded when each new act is to commence, and a time-keeper, showing the audience what is the hour and minute, is placed over the proscenium on a novel construction. In summer the house is so comfortable that a refreshing draught is constantly kept up all over it, and in winter it is warmed throughout by furnaces. We see it stated that, at this season of the year, it consumes nearly three tons of coal a day.

A Heroic Woman.—A correspondent furnishes us a fact in regard to the noble conduct of a woman that deserves honorable mention. The clipper ship Neptune's Car, Capt. Jacob Patten, sailed from New York for San Francisco about the 29th of July last. The captain, on the passage, was attacked with brain fever and subsequent blindness; the chief mate having been deposed from duty previous to the captain's illness, and the second mate being incompetent to navigate the vessel, the captain's wife, who happened providentially to be on board, and who had been taught navigation by her husband, took charge of the ship, and brought it safely into port.—Boston Transcript.

A citizen of Bullitt, who resides on the line of the Nashville railroad, desires us to correct a statement which we made last week on the authority of Mr. Gamble. Our correspondent says that after diligent inquiry he is satisfied that Mr. Gamble had made but few small contracts for wood—sufficient to keep the cars running. He goes on to say:

There has been no encouragement given the people to cut wood—$1.25 is what Mr. G. has offered for wood on the road-side. The company now charge $7 per car load (6 cords) to bring wood 13 miles. There are now thousands of cords of wood upon the road-side rotting simply because the people were afraid to cut it for fear the company would neither buy it nor bring it to Louisville for them. Had they met with all the encouragement he would make the citizens of Louisville believe they had, there would now have been thousands of cords of wood cut and upon the road-side ready to relieve the distressed poor of your city at a much less rate than they are now paying. The gentleman seems to sympathize very much with the poor of your city, and would make its citizens believe that they are suffering because the men on the road are not reliable, and have frustrated all his charitable intentions. If there be a man who has failed to comply with his contracts let him blow up the defaulter, but let him not make a charge against all the people on the road.

We know nothing of the contracts for wood. But we do know that, if the closing of the river had not shut off the receipt of a supply of coal, no one would have thought of purchasing wood from the Nashville railroad.

[Correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette.]

TOPEKA, Kansas, Jan. 7, 1857.

Wilson Shannon, Ex-Governor of Kansas, has returned to the Territory, and put up a shingle at Leavenworth, the Capital, announcing that he will practice "law." His shingle used to read "law and order," but this is all that is now left of the poor fellow.

All the soldiers in the Territory are now in winter quarters at Fort Leavenworth, except one company (company H., Capt. Nubie), which Gov. Garey has encamped near Leavenworth for his personal safety. On New Year's day this company gave a ball, to which a number of the citizens of Lawrence were invited.

Only think of a ball on the open prairie beside the frozen Kaw river—with the supper table spread in a tent—of dancing with overshoes and blankets, (not shawls, but big coarse Mackinaws, such as the Indians wear)—of gentlemen slapping their hands around their bodies, while dancing, to warm their fingers, and ladies running to the camp-fire at the end of each cotillon to warm their noses.

They got tired of it about midnight, however, and all turned in to sleep under the tents. In the morning holes were broken in the ice, around which the ladies collected to wash their faces, and then having refreshed themselves with a cup of coffee, the merry dancers set out on their return home. The balls you have in the States are tame, formal affairs compared with the dances we get up in Kansas.

TONS OF MORDECAI AND ESTHER.—These

tombs, which are held in the highest veneration by the Jews of Persia, are situated in the centre of Hamadan, the former capital of Persia. They are carefully kept in the highest state of repair. The following is a translation of the inscription on the dome over these tombs: "On Thursday, the 16th of the month of Adar, in the year of the creation of the world 4474, the building of this temple over the tombs of Mordecai and Esther was finished by the hands of two benevolent brothers, Elias and Samuel, sons of the late Ishmael of Kachan." Ferrier, in his "Caravan Journeys and Wonderings," says:

"It is now nearly eleven centuries and a half since this monument was constructed. The tombs are made of rather hard black wood, which has suffered little from the effects of time. They are covered with Hebrew inscriptions, still very legible, of which Sir John Malcolm has given the following translation:

"At that time there was in the palace of Suza, a certain Jew, of the name of Mordecai; he was the son of Jair, of Shime, who was the son of Kish, a Benjaminite, for Mordecai the Jew was the second of that name under the King of Asuasur, a man much distinguished among the Jews, and enjoying great consideration among his own people, anxious for their welfare, and seeking to promote the peace of all Asia."

THE FINANCES OF CUBA.—In the Prese of the 21st you will find an estimate of the expenses of the government of this island, presented to the Cortes by Gen. Concha. I believe this is the first time that it has been done, and gives a pretty correct idea of the expenses which Spain is under to keep "the ever faithful island." All the expenses, including $1,225,000 to be sent to Spain, and $8,575 of Regalia segars for the Court, amount to $9,057,852 for the first six months. The revenues of all kinds are estimated during the same period, at $9,435,242 87 1/2.

This estimate gives but an imperfect idea of the wealth of the island, as all the items are furnished by the custom-house. A large margin is left for smuggling, a considerable amount of which is done here yearly. Information has been received here that the Captain General will receive but $20,000 per annum instead of $50,000. Experience has demonstrated that there is no use in increasing the compensation of some people to induce them to be honest. Other large salaries will also be curtailed, and a new custom-house regulation introduced calculated to prevent smuggling on a grand scale.

Out at Last.—An old man named Gregg, who has been confined in Fauquier county jail since the first of October, 1846, for debt, under the old law, was released on Christmas day by jailor Cross, there being nothing left in the hands of the law to pay his jail expenses. We learn that this man had property enough to pay this claim against him, but that he preferred spending his weary hours within the gloomy walls of the county prison to paying the debt which he owed. The person who had him confined has been dead some years, but we learn put a provision in his will appropriating a sufficient amount to keep him in limbo as long as he lived. When he left the jail door he appeared to be perfectly bewildered and did not know which way to travel; but in a short time he became fully conscious of his freedom, and strutted about with the air of one who knew what liberty used to be in "by-gone days."

Taking the insect carefully between his thumb and forefinger, he put it into the sugar-bowl, and quickly dropped the lid over his prisoner. His visitor, more annoyed than ever, knowing as he did theavarious character of the man before him, repeated the question. "I'll tell you," replied the miser, a triumphant grin overspreading his countenance as he spoke. "I want to ascertain if the servants steal the sugar."

Making Things Comfortable.—The Boston theatre is a model of comfort in every way. You sit on the easiest of seats, have plenty of room for your "continuations," have everywhere a good sight and hearing of the stage, are never offended by the lack of ventilation, have wide lobes to lounge in, convenient retiring rooms to sit in, and plenty of light to see by. A gong is sounded when each new act is to commence, and a time-keeper, showing the audience what is the hour and minute, is placed over the proscenium on a novel construction. In summer the house is so comfortable that a refreshing draught is constantly kept up all over it, and in winter it is warmed throughout by furnaces. We see it stated that, at this season of the year, it consumes nearly three tons of coal a day.

A Heroic Woman.—A correspondent furnishes us a fact in regard to the noble conduct of a woman that deserves honorable mention. The clipper ship Neptune's Car, Capt. Jacob Patten, sailed from New York for San Francisco about the 29th of July last. The captain, on the passage, was attacked with brain fever and subsequent blindness; the chief mate having been deposed from duty previous to the captain's illness, and the second mate being incompetent to navigate the vessel, the captain's wife, who happened providentially to be on board, and who had been taught navigation by her husband, took charge of the ship, and brought it safely into port.—Boston Transcript.

THE GREAT RUSSIAN REMEDY—Pro Bono Publico.—"Every mother should have a box in the house handy in case of accidents to the children."

REDDING'S RUSSIA SALVE.—It is a Boston remedy of thirty years' standing, and is recommended by physicians. It is a sure and speedy cure for Burns, Piles, Blills, Corns, Felons, Chilblains, and Old Sores of every kind; for Fever Sores, Ulcers, Itch, Scalp Head, Nettle Rash, Bumions, Sore Nipples (recommended by nurses), Whitlows, Sties, Fester, Flea Bites, Spider Stings, Frozen Limbs, Salt Rheum, Scurvy, Sore and Cracked Lips, Sore Nose, Warts, and Flesh Wounds; it is a most valuable remedy and cure, which can be testified to by thousands who have used it in the city of Boston and vicinity for the last thirty years. In no instance will this Salve do an injury, or interfere with a physician's prescriptions. It is made from the purest materials, from a recipe brought from Russia—articles growing in that country—and the proprietors have letters from all classes, clergymen, physicians, sea captains, nurses, and others who have used it themselves, and recommended it to others.

Redding's Russia Salve is put in large tin boxes, stamped on the cover with a picture of a horse and a disabled soldier, which picture is also engraved on the wrapper.

Price 25 cents a box. Redding & Co., proprietors. R. A. Robinson and Bell, Talbot, & Co., agents for Louisville. Scribner & Devol, agents for New Albany.

DISSOLUTION.—The copartnership heretofore existing between the undersigned, under the style of Miller & Tabb, has been dissolved by mutual consent.

The business will hereafter be continued by G. B. Tabb, at their old place of business, corner of Fourth and Market streets.

COLD WEATHER AND FROST BITES.—Tens of thousands of persons suffer annually with frost-bites, limb, when they could easily be cured by using Porter's Oriental Life Liniment.

Eight hundred bottles of this Liniment were sold at the principal depot in this city on Monday, the 5th of January, nearly every bottle of which was bought especially for the cure of frost-bites. This great demand for the Oriental Life Liniment is in consequence of the universal success which has attended its use in the cure of frost-bites. It is a well-known fact that hundreds of old cases, from ten to fifteen years' standing, have been permanently cured by the use of this valuable remedy.

Sold wholesale and retail at $6 Third street. Also by all druggists and country merchants throughout the Union.

ST. CHARLES,

In building lately occupied by the Merchants' Exchange, on Fifth street, between Main and Market.

THE undersigned would call the attention of their friends and the public in general to the fact that they have this day opened their Restaurant and Dining Saloon which they determined shall not be surpassed by any in the Western country. The Restaurant (under care of Mr. M. H. Meyer) will be open to the public at all hours, and the department will at all times be supplied with every delicacy in season and out of season, which will be served up by that prince of cooks "Old Jim" in a style peculiar to his own. The bar (under charge of Mr. Meyer, late of Walker's) will be constantly supplied with the choicest Wines, Liquors, Coffees, &c.

Private parties can be furnished with Dinners and Suppers in private parlors in the house.

Families and private parties abroad can also be furnished with every delicacy which is to be had, at no extra expense to us.

We will be pleased to furnish every article to merit a share of the public patronage which has been so liberally bestowed upon us heretofore in our different positions.

POLICE PROCEEDINGS.—Friday, January 16.—

Nine o'clock by the Judge's watch, and the hour for opening court by the ordinances of the city. Justice is in its chair—the vigilant prosecutor at his desk—the ready clerk at his table—the Marshal sings out "O, yes," and prays God, pro forma, to save the Commonwealth of Kentucky and the "Honorable Court." We look around for the occasion of the session, and find seated a forlorn individual wight, William Porter, who had been testing the merits of his bottled namesake at various coffee-houses, and found it the stronger, being floored and carried off to jail by its strength. Porter was of course sober and penitent this morning. The officer who arrested him not appearing, he was dismissed.

That solitary case being disposed of, the Court dismissed itself, and all concerned dispersed, gratified with the rapidly improving morals of the city.

DECISIONS OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

FRANKFORT, January 15.

CAUSES DECIDED.

Gray vs Newport Bridge Co., Kenton.
Patch vs Covington, Kenton.—were argued.

Expedients to Get Rid of Paupers.—Certain inhabitants of Moretown, in this State, in order to rid the town of the support of a pauper cripple, feeble in body and mind, induced a man to marry her by the payment of $60 in hand and the promise of $40 in addition. It appeared that the would-be or hired husband professed to entertain a special spite against the town of his own legal settlement, and hoped that he should, by the marriage, impose the burden on them. The ceremony took place and the parties lived together about three weeks when the husband abandoned the wife, in consummation of his original purpose. On her petition for a decree of nullity, the court held that the transaction was existing in all the essentials of a valid marriage. "It was a sham and pretence; and, in regard to the petitioner, it was a flagrant and disgraceful fraud."

Vermont Phoenix.

The Great Iron Steamer.—The following are some of the main particulars of the enormous iron steamer now in course of construction on the Thames: Her whole length is 684 feet; breadth of beam 86 feet; diameter of paddle-wheels 121 feet; depth of hold 70 feet; depth of paddle-wheel 58 feet; diameter of screw 41 feet. There will be funnels and seven masts, two of the latter being square rigged. The nominal horse power will be 2,600, but it will work up from 6,000 to 10,000. Her measurement will be 23,640 tons. It is expected that her crew will number 750 to 800 men, including twelve chief officers. She will have accommodations for 20,000 persons, including 4,000 first class passengers; or used as a transport, she can carry 15,000 troops and 5,000 horses. She is expected to run at the rate of sixteen miles an hour. Surely this is one of the wonders of mechanic power in the nineteenth century.

N. Y. MONEY MARKET, JAD. 12, P. M.

The case in the money market, noticed on Saturday, has proved but temporary, as we then intimated, although the demand for day has not yet quieted as much stringency as expected during the month of last year.

The news from Europe is quite as favorable as expected. Cotton is about 1-16d per lb. higher than the quotations per North American, and breadstuffs at Liverpool are also a little firmer. At Home breadstuffs are quiet.

The Stock market opened with a more buoyant tone but without such general improvement in prices.

Foreign Exchange is unsettled; the large bankers are anxious both to buy and sell, and of course keep their quoted rates as low as possible. Bills on London 108@ $105 1/2c, with 108% offered for large sums; Paris 5 2/3@ $5 20.
